SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT NO.

October 1947-May 1948

1. Since October 1947, when the Hunchun-Najindong-Pes'yet highway was first usable, an average of ten to twenty truckloads of military supplies has been transported over this route from Kraskino to the Chinese Communist Garrison Command at Hunchun. The highway provides an excellent route from the Maritime Krai into North Korea and northeastern Manchuria, and provides another means of supplying Soviet troops in North Korea and the vital Tumen River region.

25X1A [REDACTED] Comment. [REDACTED] reported one Chinese Communist infantry battalion and one signal company at Hunchun; [REDACTED] contains information on Soviet troops in the Tumen River area.)

2. A large quantity of industrial raw materials and agricultural products are sent from North Korea and Chinese Communist-controlled Manchuria to the USSR via the highway mentioned above. Those products sent from Manchuria are sent by rail to Hunchun and via the new highway to Pos'yet. From North Korea, the shipments go by rail to a point south of Kyonghung, by truck to Kyonghung and thence to Pos'yet by way of the highway and the spur branching off at Novaya Derevnaya (130-30, 42-40). Soviet merchant shipping takes the supplies from Pos'yet to various parts of the USSR.

3. Truck assembly areas have been located at the following points along the Hunchun-Po'syet highway:

Hunchun	400	trucks
Erhtaohotzu	500	"
Kraskino	600	"
Kyonghung	300	"
Novaya Derevnaya	750	"
Pos'yet	800	"

This document is hereby regraded to CONFIDENTIAL in accordance with the letter of 15 October 1973 from the Director of Central Intelligence to the Archivist of the United States.

Next Review Date: 2008

This system provides for the servicing and replacement of vehicles that break down along the route, shelter for the trucks and major and minor repairs at either end of the route.

6. Military and industrial supplies have been sent to the Chinese Communist areas of Manchuria from the Maritime Province since March 1947 in exchange for Manchurian agricultural products. (See [REDACTED]. Supplies to and from the Maritime Province have been routed over the Voroshilov (131-55, 43-47) Suifenho (131-09, 44-23) railroad. At Suifenho, the supplies from the Maritime Province are re-routed to Harbin, Chiamussu (130-21, 46-49) and other key points in Chinese Communist territory.
